About GCTR

The Global Conference on Transparency Research (GCTR) is a conference that brings together leading scholars to collectively advance our understanding of the development, the implementation, the impact, and the general implications of transparency policies. It involves scholars from a wide range of academic fields (e.g., sociology, anthropology, political science, public administration, economics). The 8th edition of the GCTR will be held in Brussels, Belgium, on 15-17 May 2024.

Purpose

In order to guarantee a presence from participants all over the world, and benefit from their compelling insights, we provide grants to scholars who may face difficulties to finance their trip to / stay in Brussels. Financial support will be available for scholars that fulfil the following requirements:

1. Applicants must have a PhD (or equivalent) or are in the final stage of their thesis on access to information and transparency
2. They are not affiliated to a university in EU member states, the UK, Switzerland, Norway, Iceland, the United States, or Canada;
3. Their research activity is focused on transparency issues;
4. They have never attended this conference before;
5. They would not be able to participate in this conference without external financial support.
6. They must be fluent in English.

Application process

Your application must be sent to Prof. Vincent Mabillard (vincent.mabillard@ulb.be) between September 15 and November 1, 2023. In addition to the form below, please send your CV, list of publications and conferences, a 1-page letter of motivation, and an abstract (max. 1 page) of the work to be presented at the conference.

The selection process will take place in November, and results will be communicated in early December.
